

I went home, changed, and went out for a walk. I turned from Tukhachevsky street to [REDACTED] street where I was stopped by the car that ran me over. I got back on my feet and tried to flee, to run away. I went to the two-story house where the kids play. About 10 minutes later, soldiers arrived and arrested me. This is all true. I fully repent.

<written with different ink>

I'd like to clarify that [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] didn't break into the house. To the best of my knowledge, Zub and [REDACTED] didn't commit any crimes in Slovyansk. I'm asking to send me to Semenivka to redeem myself so that I could die as a man and help the DNR. Besides, my wife, [REDACTED], is pregnant. She is in Crimea now. I'd love to see her, cuddle my kids and become a worthy member of society.
